

Insight to Russian Market

Seldon.Basis is a web-based due diligence platform that provides one-window access to commercial data on Russian companies straight from the government sources and translates it into 12 languages, including English, German, French, Spanish, Chinese and more!

Among the 8 millions of active companies and sole entrepreneurs of Russia there are:

- 70 thousand active importers and 35 thousand exporters (official data collected for 2015-2017)
- more than 8 thousand companies* with profits exceeding 2 billion RUB/year
- around 6 million SMEs (2+ million of which are located in the European part)

* the approximate number of companies that submitted their income statements to the tax authorities.

But why do you need data on closed companies?

Many companies, whether they are active or liquidated, still share many connections – through their CEOs and management, government contracts and court proceedings etc. Seldon.Basis platform can visualize such connections and transform them into text reports.

A successful business can stay safe avoiding short-lived and sham companies by studying their affiliations and historical connections – a perfect due diligence tool out there!
